

Note on returning to work:

A release to return to work is necessary to comply with the requirements of FMLA record keeping. The release should indicate restrictions that the employer will need to evaluate in the context of the job.